

WOMEN BUILD DAYS HUGE SUCCESS

This month, we hosted our first Women's Build Days at the Stratton Flats jobsite since 2019. Over 60 women came out to the site making for a fun-filled, empowering two days of building. The volunteers were able to prime and install 10 closets of shelving, and install 10 doors, 1000' of base trim, case and header trim around 15 doors, and apply touch up stain on 800 fence pickets.

Even more important than the work accomplished was the celebration of our women on site. "We have an awesome, small but mighty, construction team... and we are a majority women staff" said Project Manager, Kelsie McKenna. In addition, many of our future homeowners that volunteer on site are female heads of household. The days marked an important celebration of all of these women as well as the welcoming and inclusionary nature of the Habitat jobsite at Stratton Flats!

PHASE 11 FINISHES MOVE ALONG

This month, our team focused on finishes. This involved priming and painting interior walls and installing interior doors. Our team then moved onto finish carpentry such as installing baseboard, case, header, and window sills. The team will continue working on trim in Buildings 13 and 14 next month as well as finishing up MEP work in Buildings 11 and 12.

THE TEAM WELCOMES ELSIE

Elsie leads volunteers installing trim

The construction welcomed a new crew leader, Elsie, to the team in October. Elsie joins us after graduating from Duke University with a degree Mechanical Engineering. Originally from Idaho Springs, CO, Elsie is eager to make her mark in the Vail Valley and on the Habitat mission. Elsie's hope is that she can service people in need and do good, intentional work with her time at Habitat. We are eager to have her helping hands on our jobsite!
